

Department of Philosophy
Faculty of Humanities and Social Sciences in Rijeka

[Croatian Society for Analytic
Philosophy](#)

Project RAD
Responding to antisocial personalities in a democratic society

Online workshop
12 and 13 January 2022

Responding to antisocial personalities in a democratic society
Contributions to the ethical debates

Keynote speaker

Rasmus Rosenberg Larsen
(Forensic Science Program & Department of Philosophy University of Toronto Mississauga)

12 January 2022 – Tuesday
14.00-15.00 (08.00-9.00 Toronto)	Rasmus Rosenberg Larsen (University of Toronto Mississauga) Are Psychopathy Assessments Ethical?
15.00-15.30	Elvio Baccarini; Kristina Lekić Barunčić (University of Rijeka) Evaluative Standards in Psychiatry. Philosophy or Democracy?
15.30-15.45	Coffee break
15.45-16.15	Ivan Cerovac (University of Rijeka) Institutional Preconditions of Epistemic Justice
16.15-16.45	Luca Malatesti (University of Rijeka); John McMillan (University of Otago) The Methods of Neuroethics: The Case of Responsibility
13 January 2022 – Wednesday
14.00-15.00 (08.00-9.00 Toronto)	Rasmus Rosenberg Larsen (University of Toronto Mississauga) Psychopathy: A Clinical Construct Whose Time Has Passed?
15.00-15.30	Marko Jurjako ; Malatesti, Luca (University of Rijeka) and Brazil Inti (Radboud University) The Categorisation of Antisocial Disorders and the Insanity Defence
15.30-15.45	Coffee break
15.45-16.15	Mia Biturajac (University of Rijeka) The Meta-debate on Mental Disorders
16.15-16.45	Mladen Bošnjak (University of Rijeka) Mental Disorder in the Criminal Law: A Medical Notion in Legal Clothing?

The event is an outcome of the project RAD that is funded by the Croatian Science Foundation

(Grant: IP-2018-01-3518)

Organisation: Luca Malatesti

